

The image is from 2004 and depicts the former Presbyterian manse on Main Street, Sag Harbor.

Tone: Warm and reflective, with a quiet dignity that honors the building's historical significance.

Mood: Serene and slightly wistful, capturing the late-day sunlight and a sense of transition in the building's life.

Style: Documentary architectural photography — focusing on period details like the carved porch trim, paneled door, and spindle railing, with soft golden light accentuating texture and craftsmanship.
